

Bio:

Matthew Dickson is a California licensed attorney with a Master's Degree in Public Health from the University of Arizona. He began his legal career at a national firm defending large corporations and municipalities in product liability and toxic tort litigation, eventually being elevated to partner. Four years ago he left to start his own firm, which is now focused on representing individuals with personal injury, product liability, and employment claims.

